2. Choosing its position (end zone).

The losing team of Rock-Paper-Scissors will be given the remaining option from the above.

Special rules in the mixed division

Penalty

The number of players cannot be increased from the number at the start of the match.

Throw-off

The defending team begins the game by throwing the disc from the defending end zone toward the opposing team's position. The throw-off is also used to restart a play after a score. Players may not cross the goal line until the throw-off is made but may move anywhere after the throw-off.

Turnover

In the following situations, the right to attack is transferred to the opponent and the game is restarted with free-throws by the opposing team, aka Turnover.

- When the defending team intercepts a pass.
- When the offensive team fails to catch the disc.
- When the disc goes out-of-bounds.
- When a player walks or runs while holding the disc. (Running to catch a pass and walking with its inertia is acceptable, but the decision is up to the referee.)

- When a player steps on or over the sideline or end line while holding the disc.
- When a player keeps holding the disc for more than 10 seconds.
- When a defensive player knocks down a pass.

Scoring

Points are awarded in the following cases

- A successful pass is made to a teammate in the opponent's end zone.
- A player cuts off an opponent's pass in the opponent's end zone.

Physical Contact

When physical contact occurs, as in the case of a turnover, the game is restarted from that point with free throws by the opposing team, in the same way as a turnover.

The game is suspended if physical contact results in an injury.

Players from a losing team may not be added to another team.

Players cannot be added to multiple teams in the same discipline.
